My parents told me that they needed to speak to me about my older sister, Ruth.

I noticed that Ruth has been in a bad mood for a long time. She has no patience for anyone now.

A man and a woman are sitting on a light-colored sofa in a living room. The man, on the left, has grey hair and a beard, wearing a blue button-down shirt. The woman, on the right, has reddish-brown hair and is wearing a brown button-down shirt. They both have worried or sad expressions, looking upwards. In the background, there are light-colored curtains and a lamp with a beige shade.

My parents said that Ruth is very sad and confused. She hasn't been able to cope and was misled by some bad people.

Those people told Ruth that she can become a different person. She was just "born in the wrong body", they said. They told her that all her problems would be solved if she changed her body and became a boy.

A man and a woman are sitting on a grey couch in a living room. The man, on the left, has a beard and is wearing a blue button-down shirt. The woman, on the right, has long brown hair and is wearing a brown button-down shirt. They both have serious, concerned expressions. In the background, there is a window with sheer curtains, a small potted plant on the couch, and a vase with dried flowers on a table to the right.

My parents said that my sister is currently so confused that she believes this.

Because of that, Ruth has lost touch with reality. In truth, it doesn't matter what you wear, what you like, or how you act. A woman cannot become a man, and a man cannot become a woman. A boy cannot become a girl, and a girl cannot become a boy.

My parents said that my sister is now so confused that she's asked everyone to pretend she is a boy.

My mom and dad said that Ruth wants to take strange medications to make her body look more masculine, even though we all know she is really a girl.

They said they don't know how long it will be before my sister faces reality again. It could be a long time

I told my parents that I don't know what to do. They said that's okay, that this is an issue for the adults to deal with, and it has nothing to do with me. I don't need to do anything and it's not my fault.

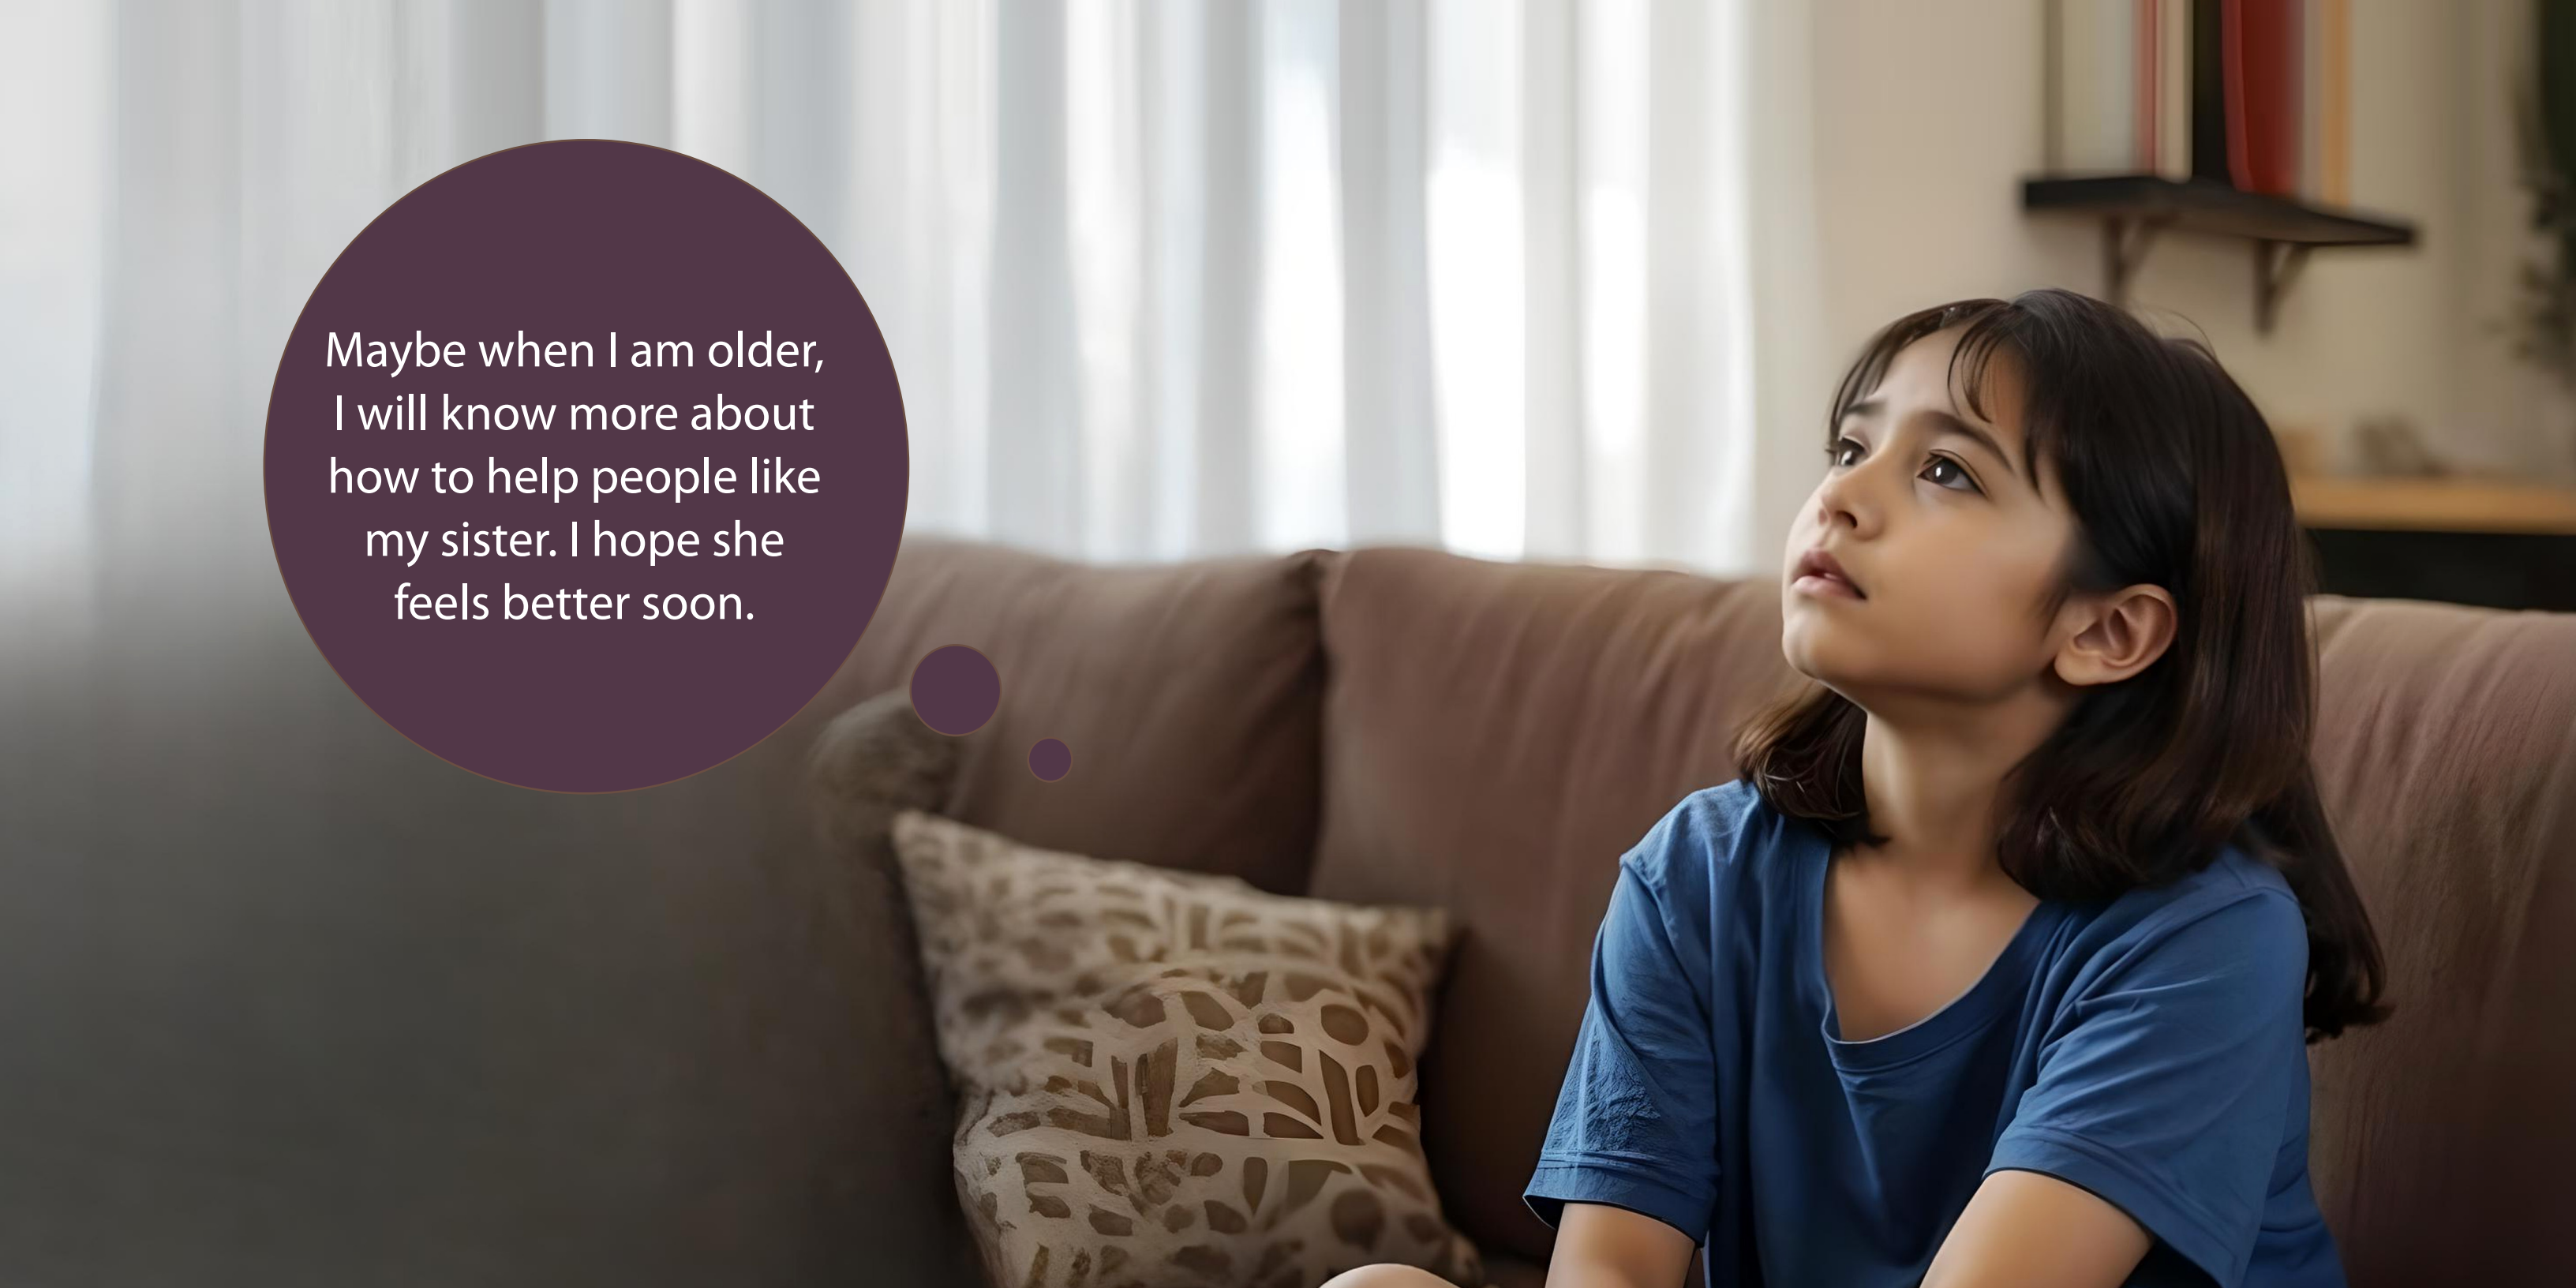

My parents said they would let me know if anything changed. They also said I should tell them if Ruth says anything strange to me. If anyone says strange things about Ruth to me, I should tell them about that, too.

So, for now, I am waiting for my sister to get back to normal, so we can play again.

Maybe when I am older,
I will know more about how to help people like my sister. I hope she feels better soon.

The popularity of gender ideology presents novel challenges for parents needing to safeguard young children. Ideally, exposure to these ideas should be delayed.

When children are older, more detailed and nuanced explanations can be provided. However, sometimes early exposure is unavoidable. This book series aims to mitigate the damage, providing age-appropriate messages and strategies to preserve childhood innocence and promote growth.

This book is aimed at kindergarten-aged children. It pertains to an older sister who is currently captured by gender ideology.
